

GUEST IS ASKED TO LEAVE CLUB

Herzig Sure Antipathy Caused Treatment He Received at Larchmont's House.

New York, July 20.—Leo S. Herzig, a member of the board of governors and former rear-commodore of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, now known as the National Yacht Club, was ejected from the Larchmont Yacht Club house Tuesday night. Herzig, who is staying in the Royal Victoria Hotel, Larchmont, said yesterday that he was discriminated against because he is a Jew.

"I shall never again set foot on the grounds of the Larchmont Yacht Club," said Herzig, who owns the racing craft Gardania, "nor will I permit any boat I may own to engage in the Larchmont races. I may safely say that my reputation as a yachtsman is proof enough that I do not go where I am not wanted."

Two weeks ago I received a courtesy card from a member of the Larchmont club. I do not care to mention his name. At 5 o'clock the following morning I received a message on the Gardania that the card had been revoked on the ground that I was a resident of Larchmont. As a fact, my residence is at 138 West Eighty-third Street, Manhattan. I paid no particular attention to this notice, as it has always been customary to give visiting yacht owners the privilege of entering the clubhouse.

"On Tuesday evening I entered the bar of the clubhouse with Walter Sullivan, the commodore of the Harlem Yacht Club. A page told us that T. W. Devereux, the superintendent, wanted to speak to me. Mr. Devereux told me I was an objectionable person and would have to leave. He said my ticket was no good unless signed by a member."

"I asked who had given him orders to eject me, but he refused to tell. I have my own idea as to who first pointed me out. I explained that I was a member in good standing of one of the principal yacht clubs in New York waters, but he said that made no difference. I was not wanted there, and I would have to go."

"I told Horace E. Boucher, chairman of the racing committee, that the Gardania would never again compete in any race of the club. He told me he was sorry the affair had happened, but he could do nothing."

"I am sorry that this has come to the attention of the public, but I feel that I was treated unjustly and that Devereux's action was inspired by some one higher up because of religious prejudice. Yachting with me has been purely a sport. The intrinsic value of the Gardania's many prizes is only a fraction of what it costs to keep the yacht in racing trim. It doesn't matter to me whom I race against, and I have willingly accepted any handicap which the racing committees have seen fit to impose."

"I assure you I shall make it a point not to burden the Larchmont Yacht Club with my presence. I shall pull up anchor to-morrow."

Commodore Leonard Richards, of the club, discussed the affair with great reluctance. He informed a reporter that as long as a person held a ticket it was not necessary for the ticket to be signed by a member.

Devereux denied all knowledge of the affair. He said that more than 2,000 persons were in the clubhouse and about the grounds Tuesday, as that was "ladies' day." There were luncheon and water sports in the afternoon and a ball at night.

"We have a very strict rule concerning visitors, and no one without a ticket is permitted to remain," said the superintendent. "Possibly several persons were sent away, but there is no truth in the story that Mr. Herzig was ejected because of the fact that he is a Jew."

Boucher admitted that Herzig had come to him Friday night, withdrawn the Gardania's entry, and explained why he was taking that step.

"I do not consider the withdrawal formal," added Boucher. "Entries must be submitted in writing, and so must be withdrawals. Until I am notified in writing I shall take no official action."

Yesterday Herzig took out his sloop, but refused to cross the line when the gun was fired for the starting of Class M. Last year, under the plotting of her owner, the Gardania won the ocean race to Fire Island, Cape May and return.

CHICKEN MAY HAVE GEM.

Suspected of Swallowing Diamond for Grain of Corn.

Middletown, N. Y., July 20.—The crop of a large Rhode Island hen, which was found in the town of Montgomery, this country, is believed to contain a diamond valued at $250, belonging to Mrs. William King, wife of a New York business man.

Mrs. King, who is stopping in Montgomery, lost the diamond from an earring Monday, and the chicken, which was near, is thought to have picked it up, mistaking the gem for a kernel of grain. Before the loss was discovered, the chicken was sold, and the purchaser has been asked to investigate the fowl at once in the hope of finding the diamond.

FIRST GUN BY MILL OWNERS.

Make Determined Effort to Break Up Brotherhood of Timber Workers.

New Orleans, La., July 20.—A determined effort to break up the recently organized National Brotherhood of Timber Workers was decided upon here yesterday at a meeting of lumber operators from East Texas, Louisiana and South Mississippi. The first guns of the mill owners will be fired Monday of next week, when the large mills in Calcasieu and Vernon parishes, reporting a daily output of 1,500,000 feet of lumber, will be closed for an indefinite period. Already five large mills in these two parishes have been closed down, and after Monday a total of several thousand mill employees in Calcasieu and Vernon will be unemployed.

The mill men regard the National Brotherhood of Timber Workers as a Socialist movement not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Rockefeller Protests Against Assessment on Cleveland Estate.

Cleveland, O., July 20.—Forest Hill, John D. Rockefeller's Cleveland estate, was subjected to the scrutinizing eyes of the county board of equalization to-day. The board went out to investigate Mr. Rockefeller's claim that the tax valuation of $1,435,000 by this year's appraisers is too high. Mr. Rockefeller's attorneys told the board that the valuation is 400 per cent above the estate's taxable value.

WILL BEGIN LIFE ANEW

Brooklyn's "Gentleman Burglar" Sails for Norway.

New York, July 20.—Brooklyn's "Gentleman Burglar," Karl Von Metz-Meyer, former lieutenant of the Norwegian army, sailed for Norway to-day to begin life anew. After he confessed to many burglaries Metz-Meyer was given his choice of five years in prison or return to his own country, and he did not take him long to decide. He remained handcuffed to a detective to-day until his ship sailed.

"BLUES" WILL TRY TO RETAKE BOSTON

Military Practice Campaign in Massachusetts Planned on Big Scale.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—With the country theoretically at war, the Massachusetts militia, officered by the officers of the regular army, will conduct a military practice campaign from July 23 to 30 on a more extensive scale than ever before attempted by the national guard troops of the United States. The theatre of operations will extend over practically all of the northeastern part of the State, from Boston to the Merrimack River. The State forces will be divided into two camps, "blue" and "red," commanded by Brigadier-Generals Clark and Pew, of the militia.

The United States is supposed to be in the grip of a foreign foe. Boston, in theory, is captured in May, but the bulk of the enemy had been transferred to New York City to engage the main American forces. General Pew's troops will represent the remnant of the hostile army left at Boston. It will be the task of General Clark's soldiers, along with the militia, to annihilate the enemy and retake Boston. The "blues" will concentrate near Lowell, while the headquarters of the "reds" will be Salem.

Governor Foss, of Massachusetts, will be chief umpire, and Captain May, of the regular army, will be principal assistant. In addition a number of other regular army officers, as umpires, will be with the opposing brigades.

GLOVER FIGHTING FOR EDDY ESTATE

Declares Mother's Bequest Procured by Undue Influence Over Feeble Woman.

Concord, N. H., July 20.—"Perfidious," "hostile to organized society" and "forbidden and made void by public policy and the laws of the land" are some of the terms applied to the practices of the leaders of the Christian Science Church, in a lengthy set of amendments filed with the clerk of the Merrimack County Superior Court to-day by counsel for George W. Glover, of Lead, S. D., to Glover's bill seeking to have the residuary clause of the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, declared void.

This residuary clause bequeaths the residue of the estate, estimated at about $2,000,000, to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, and Glover seeks to obtain this residue for himself and Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy, of Waterbury, Va., Mrs. Eddy's adopted son.

The bill is directed against Henry M. Baker, executor of the Eddy estate, and officers of the Christian Science Church.

The Christian Science religion and its practice and the administration of its church affairs are discussed at length in the amendments, which conclude:

"The plaintiff now, therefore, avers that the residuary bequest of substantially all Mrs. Eddy's property to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., was procured by the five directors of said church by concealment from her of the unlawfulness of the bequest, and by undue influence over a feeble and deluded testatrix, and that said bequest is void."

Van Camp's Milk comes to you as thick as thick cream. So thick that you add one part water for coffee, cereals or ice cream. It is 28 per cent solids, 8 per cent butter fat.

It gives to milk dishes astonishing richness and flavor. This is so apparent that some people think we add richness to it. But we don't. Van Camp's is simply rich milk as it comes from the cow, with two-thirds the water evaporated. Nothing is added—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Nothing but water is taken out.

The richness is due to the fact that this is

Bisque Ice Cream

To a quart of water that has been boiled and cooled, add three pint (1 1/2 cups) of Van Camp's Milk. Dissolve in this one cup of sugar. Add 1/2 cup of sugar in a shallow pan to a quart of water, and add 1/2 cup of water. To this add 1 1/2 cups of milk. To this add 1 1/2 cups of sugar. Pack and freeze in the usual manner. GIRL OF NINE SWIMS ACROSS HUDSON RIVER

Covers Mile and Three-Quarters, With Father Following in a Rowboat.

New York, July 19.—Being an editor's daughter, Miss Mary Miller, of No. 690 West 142d Street, reads the papers critically, even though she hasn't much more than passed her ninth birthday, and so Wednesday she said to her father, John R. Miller, of the Associated Press: "Father, I don't think much of these stories about young ladies in Newport swimming a mile or so getting prominent places on front pages. Swimming's too easy. Why, I can do better than that myself."

Little Miss Miller, a slim youngster, has been kicking around in deep fathoms for a couple of summers. She and her dad swam every afternoon in the Hudson. "All right, then," said Mr. Miller, "let's see what we can do."

They dived from a float at 155th Street and easily paddled up to 131st Street, where the Hudson is about a mile and a quarter wide, and has a current that skippers of the highest powered motor boats hate to buck. "Here," said Miss Mary, "I'm going across."

Mr. Miller got a rowboat and a companion, and his eighty-pound daughter started briskly toward Jersey with a double overhand stroke.

Without a single stop to tread water or float, little Miss Mary trudged on her way across the river until she placed a brown hand on a Jersey rock scrambled ashore, slipped herself on her little boy's swimming suit and said: "It was easy."

Altogether, with her struggles against the tide, she covered about a mile and three-quarters.
